Item 8.01

Other Events

On September 17, 2012, Worthington Industries, Inc. (the “Registrant”) announced that its Pressure Cylinders segment had, on September 17, 2012, acquired the Westerman Companies, a manufacturer of tanks and pressure vessels for the oil and gas, nuclear and marine markets. The purchase price was $70 million, of which approximately $6 million went to pay down Westerman debt.

Westerman was founded and is headquartered in Bremen, Ohio where it operates a manufacturing facility and has another facility in Wooster, Ohio. Westerman is a leading manufacturer of highly technical products for global energy markets, including oil and gas and nuclear, where its energy products are used for a broad variety of exploration, recovery and production purposes. Westerman’s marine products are used in shipyard lift systems for large, sea-going vessels. Westerman also leverages its energy and marine segment competencies to manufacture pressure vessels, atmospheric tanks, controls and various custom machined components for other industrial end markets.
