Explanatory Note

Edgar Filing: INTERDIGITAL COMMUNICATIONS CORP - Form 8-K/A

We are filing this Amendment No. 1 to our Current Report on Form 8-K originally filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission on September 8, 2005, to amend the Item Number from Item 1.01 to Item 8.01 and certain portions of the original text of the Form 8-K. There have been no changes to the patent license agreement referred to below.

Item 8.01. Other Events.

On September 1, 2005, InterDigital Communications Corporation's patent holding subsidiaries (collectively, "InterDigital") entered into a worldwide, non-transferable, non-exclusive, patent license agreement with Kyocera Wireless Corp., and its parent corporation, Kyocera Corporation, (collectively, "Kyocera"). The five-year 3G patent license agreement covers the sale of terminal units compliant with cdma2000(R) technology and its extensions commencing July 1, 2004. InterDigital Technology Corporation, a wholly-owned subsidiary of InterDigital Communications Corporation, and Kyocera Corporation are also parties to a TDMA-technology patent license agreement, which remains in place.

Under the terms of the new patent license agreement and subject to a Kyocera option to convert the license to a royalty-bearing basis, Kyocera is obligated to pay InterDigital a license fee of $50 million, which covers licensed product sales up to a specified threshold dollar amount. The $50 million fee is payable in four installments, including an initial payment of $20 million which we received in third quarter 2005. Subject to Kyocera's right to exercise its option, Kyocera is obligated to pay three additional $10 million installments due no later than the third quarters of 2006, 2007, and 2008, respectively.

cdma2000(R) is a registered trademark of the Telecommunications Industry Association (TIA-USA).
