NET SAVINGS LINK, INC.
(A Development Stage Company)
Notes to the Unaudited Financial Statements

1. Nature of Operations and Continuance of Business

The unaudited interim financial statements included herein have been prepared by Net Savings Link, Inc. (“we,” “our” or the “Company”) in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America and the rules of the Securities and Exchange Commission. We suggest that these interim financial statements be read in conjunction with the audited financial statements and notes thereto included in our Form 10-K for the year ended November 30, 2011, as filed with the SEC. We believe that all adjustments, consisting of normal recurring adjustments, necessary for a fair presentation of financial position and the results of operations for the interim periods presented have been reflected herein and that the disclosures made are adequate to make the information not misleading. The results of operations for interim periods are not necessarily indicative of the results to be expected for the full year. Notes to the financial statements which would substantially duplicate the disclosure contained in the audited financial statements for the most recent fiscal year as reported in Form 10-K have been omitted.

2. Going Concern

These financial statements have been prepared on a going concern basis, which implies that the Company will continue to realize its assets and discharge its liabilities in the normal course of business. During the period from inception through August 31, 2012, the Company has generated limited revenues and has an accumulated deficit of $3,509,188. The continuation of the Company as a going concern is dependent upon the continued financial support from its management, and its ability to identify future investment opportunities and obtain the necessary debt or equity financing, and generating profits from the Company’s future operations. These factors raise substantial doubt regarding the Company’s ability to continue as a going concern. These financial statements do not include any adjustments to the recoverability and classification of recorded asset amounts and classification of liabilities that might be necessary should the Company be unable to continue as a going concern.

3. Significant Accounting Policies

Allowance for doubtful accounts

We establish an allowance for bad debts through a review of several factors including historical collection experience, current aging status of the customer accounts, and financial condition of our customers. We do not generally require collateral for our accounts receivable. As of August 31, 2012, we had no allowance for doubtful accounts as the only receivable balance is due from one customer which is expected to be received before the fiscal year-end.

4. Related Party Transactions

As of August 31, 2012, the Company owed $38,725 to the President and CEO of the Company for back due wages.

As of August 31, 2012, the Company owed $53,427 to the Vice President and director of the Company for back due wages.

During June 2012, the Company issued 150,000 shares of preferred stock to both the President and CEO and Vice President of the Company for amounts owed. The shares were valued at $250, or $0.0008 per share.

Table of Contents

4. Related Party Transactions (Continued)

During August 2012, the Company issued 600,000 shares of preferred stock to both the President and CEO and Vice President of the Company for amounts owed. The shares were valued at $1,000, or $0.0017 per share.

5. Convertible Promissory Notes Payable

During the nine months ended August 31, 2012, the Company issued four Unsecured Convertible Promissory Notes (the “Convertible Promissory Notes”) to Asher Enterprises, Inc., a Delaware corporation (“Asher”) in the amounts of $47,500, $37,500, $37,500 and $50,000, or a total of $172,500. The Convertible Promissory Notes are unsecured, due approximately nine months from the dates of issuance, accrued interest at 8% per annum and are convertible, at the option of the holder, into shares of the Company’s common stock after 180 days from issuance at fifty eight percent (58%) of the fair market value of one share of the Company’s common stock based on the average of the three lowest bid prices of the Company’s common stock during the ten trading days prior to the conversion date.

During the nine months ended August 31, 2012, the Company issued two Unsecured Convertible Promissory Notes (the “Convertible Promissory Notes”) to Southridge Partners II, LP, a Delaware Limited Partnership (“Southridge”) in the amounts of $75,000 and $50,000, or a total of $125,000. The Convertible Promissory Notes are unsecured, due approximately three and nine months, respectively, from the dates of issuance, accrued interest at 8% per annum and are convertible, at the option of the holder, into shares of the Company’s common stock. The note in the amount of $75,000 is convertible into common shares at maturity and the note in the amount of $50,000 is convertible into common shares after 180 days from issuance at sixty percent (55%) and seventy percent (70%), respectively, of the fair market value of one share of the Company’s common stock based on the average of the two lowest bid prices of the Company’s common stock during the five trading days prior to the conversion date. The Company paid $50,000 in legal fees associated with the funding of $75,000 convertible note. These fees have been recorded as debt discount and have been amortized during the nine months ended August 31, 2012.

In addition, to the $75,000 convertible note due to Southridge Partners II, LP, the Company granted a stock warrant for 1,500,000 shares of its common stock with an exercise price of $0.05 per share on March 9, 2012. These warrants have a seven-year term and are fully vested on the grant date. On March 9, 2012, the Company fair valued the warrants using the Black-Scholes pricing model for a total value of $86,100. The warrant has a relative fair market value of $19,405; this is accounted for as a discount on the convertible note. The discount is amortized over the life of loan (approx. 4 months) and has been amortized as of August 31, 2012.

As of August 31, 2012, the Company has recognized $186,547 in amortized discount and $14,864 remains unamortized.

The fair value of the warrants was computed using the Black-Scholes pricing model with the following assumptions:

Expected Term	7 years
Expected volatility	434.78%
Risk free interest rate	1.43%
Expected dividend yield	0.00%

The warrants weighted average remaining contractual life for warrants outstanding as of August 31, 2012 is approximately 6.7 years; the weighted average exercise price is $0.05. The intrinsic value of the warrants is $0.00.

6. Derivative Liabilities

The Company analyzed the conversion options embedded in the Convertible Promissory Notes (see Note 4) for derivative accounting consideration under Accounting Series Codification 815, Derivatives and Hedging, and determined that the instruments embedded in the Convertible Promissory Notes are required to be classified as liabilities and recorded at fair value upon ability to be converted due to their being no explicit limit to the number of shares to be delivered upon settlement of the conversion options. Additionally, the Convertible Promissory Notes contain dilutive issuance clauses. Under these clauses, based on future issuances of the Company's common stock or other convertible instruments, the conversion price of the Convertible Promissory Notes can be adjusted downward. Because the number of shares to be issued upon settlement of the Convertible Promissory Notes cannot be determined under this instrument, the Company cannot determine whether it will have sufficient authorized shares at a given date to settle any other future share instruments.

Because the number of shares to be issued upon settlement of the Convertible Promissory Notes cannot be determined under this instrument, the Company cannot determine whether it will have sufficient authorized shares at a given date to settle any other future share instruments. The company also analyzed the warrants for fair value as these have been tainted by the convertible notes due to indeterminable shares at time of settlement.

The fair values of the four instruments were determined to be $212,007 using a Black-Scholes option-pricing model. Upon the date the Convertible Promissory Notes became convertible, $132,005 was recorded as debt discount, $38,825 was recorded as day one derivative liability charged to additional paid-in capital, and $41,177 was recorded as day one loss on derivative liability. During the three months ended August 31, 2012, the Company recorded a net gain on mark-to-market of the conversion options and warrants of $6.945.

The following table sets forth by level with the fair value hierarchy the Company's financial assets and liabilities measured at fair value on August 31, 2012.

The decrease in operating expenses is mainly attributed to a decrease in operating expenses related to its website as it tries to minimize costs.

During the nine months ended August 31, 2012, the Company incurred operating expenses totaling $918,260 compared with $420,016 for the nine months ended August 31, 2011. The increase in operating expenses is mainly attributed to an increase in expenses from the issuance of common stock for services.

During the three months ended August 31, 2012, the Company realized net loss of $400,246 compared with a net loss of $315,303 for the three months ended August 31, 2011. The increase in net loss was primarily due to a gain on derivative liability of $6,945 during the three months ended August 31, 2012 as well as discount amortization expense of $186,547, partially offset by increases in operational costs such as consulting and professional fees related to the commencement of operations.

ITEM 4. CONTROLS AND PROCEDURES.

Under the supervision and with the participation of our management, including the Principal Executive Officer and Principal Financial Officer, we have evaluated the effectiveness of our disclosure controls and procedures as required by Exchange Act Rule 13a-15(b) as of the end of the period covered by this report. Based on that evaluation, the Principal Executive Officer and Principal Financial Officer have concluded that these disclosure controls and procedures are not effective because procedures were not in place to provide for timely, complete, accurate reporting of events. The foregoing was a result of our president's lack of experience with his reporting and disclosure obligations. Our president is committed to educating himself through the seminars and consulting with attorneys to become fully knowledgeable with his obligations. In addition, currently there are no written policies or procedures that clearly define the roles in the disclosure and reporting process.

There were no changes in our internal control over financial reporting during the quarter ended August 31, 2012 that have materially affected, or are reasonably likely to materially affect, our internal control over financial reporting.
