-FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE-

SAPIENS ANNOUNCES LAUNCH OF MICROSOFT BASED TECHNOLOGY PLATFORM AND ESTIMATES $2 MILLION TO $3
MILLION REVENUES FROM THE PRODUCT IN THE FIRST YEAR

Edgar Filing: SAPIENS INTERNATIONAL CORP N V - Form 6-K

Tel Aviv, August 6, 2008 Sapiens International Corporation N.V. (NASDAQ and TASE: SPNS) today announced that it has launched a Microsoft and .NET based technology platform for the development of enterprise software applications. The new platform has special capabilities for the insurance and finance sector, which requires the agility and dynamic properties of the Sapiens product. The first beta customers have commenced using the new platform in Japan and Sapiens estimates that the new platform will generate between $2 million and $3 million in revenues during the first year of its launch.

According to Sapiens, the cooperation with Microsoft was created due to a market demand that the Sapiens solution be suited to Microsoft's development and information technology (IT) environment and following synchronization of the technological roadmaps of the products of each of Sapiens and Microsoft

The new platform broadens Sapiens' existing successful product line installed at hundreds of enterprise customers on the basis of Sapiens' flagship product, Sapiens eMerge. The new platform will be included in the line of products offered by Sapiens to its enterprise customers, with special focus on the financial and insurance sectors. Sapiens eMerge, is a rules-based model driven development suite which enables true agility in solution development for complex mission-critical enterprises to deliver new functionality, achieve legacy modernization and enterprise application integration.

Under this initiative Sapiens provides both its innovative model driven development environment and its Microsoft and .NET targeted application server on windows and windows server versions and integrated with Microsoft enterprise ecosystem products like SQL server 2005, system-center and biztalk server.

Oren Dror, Vice President, Enterprise partners and customers division, Microsoft Israel, said: "The cooperation between Microsoft and Sapiens will enable the most advanced technologies of these two companies to service their respective customers and will enable them to benefit from independent development capabilities, quick response time and development costs saving. The new platform will also enable IT managers of organizations to benefit from reliable solutions which directly support mission-critical enterprises.

Roni Al-dor, President and Chief Executive Officer of Sapiens said today: "The new platform represents a breakthrough in the field of guided model development and increases Sapiens' advantage in development speed and efficiency for enterprises operating in varied environments and especially organizations in the financial and insurance sectors which are highly regulated and competitive. The partnership with Microsoft is another layer in Sapiens' strategy of an open, integrative product through its work with Unified Modelling Language (UML) and integration with the Microsoft environments.
