Good [morning/afternoon/evening].

Thanks for joining me today to discuss the exciting news about our combination with Moore Wallace.

Slide Two:

Powerful Combination

Edgar Filing: DONNELLEY R R & SONS CO - Form DEFA14A

Let me begin by saying that this is a great opportunity for all of us and will help us remain committed to our vision of enriching lives by connecting people with the power of words and images. What we're creating through this combination is the world's premier full-service global printer with over $8 billion in revenue, a leading position in North America and approximately 50,000 employees worldwide. The combination will enable the new RR Donnelley to offer the world's leading companies a comprehensive suite of print and related services and solutions that will meet the demands of our growing customer base. Through this combination, the new RR Donnelley will serve leading global, national, regional and local customers. Moore Wallace's strengths complement ours. They're a leader in short-run printing and our focus is on long-run printing. This union will help us to execute our strategy to position the company for Total Shareholder Return in the top 25% of the S&P500. We'll do this by developing a balanced portfolio of a world-class commercial print business and growth businesses serving the broad communication needs of targeted markets.

Slide Three:

Who is Moore Wallace?

Exceptional Short-Run Printing Business

While you may know the Moore Wallace name, I'd like to spend a few minutes on who they are and what they're about.

- Moore Wallace was formed through the merger of Moore Corporation Limited and Wallace Computer Services, which was announced in January and completed in May of this year.
- Moore Wallace is one of the world's largest integrated providers of short-run commercial print, direct mail, forms, labels, fulfillment and distribution services. Moore Wallace also offers outsourcing communications for customers. This means they provide production and distribution services for documents sent out by a customer—unburdening the customer from the expense of in-house print and electronic resources.
- They're the third largest printer in North America with 19,000 employees in United States, Canada, Europe and Latin America.
- Moore Wallace's customers include 99 of the Fortune 100, and 467 of Fortune 500 companies did business with the company in 2002.
- They have strong outsourcing relationships.
- Moore Wallace's senior management team—led by Mark Angelson—has an exceptional track record in integration, as evidenced by the enormous success of the Moore and Wallace merger.

Strong, Diversified Revenue Base, Generating $3.4 B

Edgar Filing: DONNELLEY R R & SONS CO - Form DEFA14A

Here is a snapshot of Moore Wallace's revenue base which at $3.4 billion is just under our revenue base of $4.8 billion.

You can see here that their capabilities do indeed complement ours.

Slide Five:

The New RR Donnelley: A Snapshot

The new RR Donnelley which will keep our name and be headquartered in Chicago will be a truly global, one-stop printing company, able to deliver effective and efficient solutions to help our customers save more, sell more and build their brands. This isn't just about our operations or products, but about combining the industry's top talent. Together we have the knowledge and experience to meet our customers' needs through every step of the communications process.

- Unlike many of our competitors, we will be able to meet all of our customers' long- and short-run printing needs essentially a one-stop-shop. We can do magazines, telephone directories, books, catalogs, financial documents, inserts, billing statements, highly personalized direct mail, premedia, print fulfillment, labels, collateral materials, forms, content management, logistics services, and more.
- We'll be the leading printer in North America with strong market positions in Europe, Latin America and Asia. We expect our large global size will enable us to compete better against regional printers.
- We expect to be able to cross sell our products to each other's customers. For example, Moore Wallace provides short-run services to Wal-Mart. This combination gives us a great opportunity to sell our long-run services to them. We also have many of the same customers such as Verizon where we expect the combination will help us sell more products to them.
- Together we are a stronger company financially. We currently have about $4 billion in sales per year. Together we will have over $8 billion.
- We will have a strong management team with a deep bench of experience and a strong track record in running companies well for customers and employees. And, as I mentioned at the top of this slide, we are bringing together the most talented workforces in the industry. Working together, we are going to make each other even better. These are exciting possibilities. Through this combination, RR Donnelley will truly be a stronger, better company.

Slide Six:

Mark Angelson Experienced CEO RR Donnelley's new CEO will be Mark Angelson.

As I told you back in July, I'll retire as soon as a successor joins the RR Donnelley team. Mark is excited to become part of the RR Donnelley team, and we are glad to have him. He has a great track record for growing companies. Prior to his current position as CEO of Moore Wallace, he was Moore's non-executive Chairman and Lead Independent Director. From 1996 until 2001, Mark served in various capacities, including as executive Deputy Chairman, at Big Flower Holdings, a printing and advertising services holding company.

Here is a statement Mark issued today about the combination.

Slide Seven:

Full-Service Global Commercial Printing Capabilities; Diverse Revenue Base This gives you a good sense of how well balanced our sales base is. Few if any other printers can claim this kind of depth and breadth of services.

Slide Eight:

High Quality, Global Customer Base

Both companies have exceptionally strong customer relationships. There is some overlap in our customer base, which will give us the opportunity to sell them new services.

- For instance, RR Donnelley handles Verizon's phone books and Moore Wallace handles its monthly customer billing statements.
- AARP is another client we share. We provide magazine and logistics services while Moore Wallace provides direct mail and forms production and distribution services.
- We also both work with Sears. As you know, we work with Sears on its catalogs (for Lands End), retail inserts and logistics. Wallace Moore provides them direct mail and forms services. We think our customers will be excited to get all these services from the same company now, and we expect they will look to us to help them with other printing services as well. As you can see from this chart, there are also a lot of customers we do not have in common, which allows us a great opportunity to sell our products to their clients and vice versa.

Slide Nine:

What It Means for You / Next Steps

And now we get to the questions you've had since the announcement was made what does this all mean for you and what happens next?

Edgar Filing: DONNELLEY R R & SONS CO - Form DEFA14A

It means RR Donnelley is back on top! We're the leading printer in North America and a much larger global player. It means you'll be part of a powerful global entity with much larger scope and scale than any other competitor in the industry. Before all of this is official, the agreement must be approved by the shareholders of both companies and regulators need to approve it as well, which will take place over the next few months. Those of you who own shares will receive details of the agreement in the mail in the coming weeks. We expect the transaction to close and the agreement to be official in the first quarter of 2004. After the completion of the transaction, the integration will begin. Given the complementary nature of our businesses, we don't expect the integration will affect most people. There will be some overlap at the corporate level, and we are committed to working as quickly as possible to ensure a smooth and fair integration. Mark Angelson will lead the effort, and will rely on many members of the RR Donnelley team to help plan and execute the integration. He has a lot of experience doing this well, and we look forward to a successful integration. In the meantime, it is important that we all stay focused on delivering for our customers in the way that has made RR Donnelley the successful company it is today. In fact, until the close, both companies will continue to operate independently and retain own names. Nothing is changing until the close. This is a great occasion for our company and an incredible tribute to the talents of every employee. We hope you share in our enthusiasm and our commitment to making this exciting combination a success.

Slide Ten:

Review Key Points

To summarize, this combination gets us closer to our vision and is right on strategy. It combines two highly complementary printing businesses with over 300 years of combined experience and will create a tremendous new company with

- Blue chip customer base
- Industry-leading products
- A large global presence
- Strong financial health
- Many new opportunities for sales
- A strong and experienced management team
- And most importantly, an excellent workforce And with that, I'll take any questions you might have.
