Press Release June 21, 2004

WACHOVIA AND SOUTHTRUST TO MERGE IN STOCK-FOR-STOCK TRANSACTION

Accelerating Momentum in High-Growth Southern U.S.

CHARLOTTE, N.C. AND BIRMINGHAM, ALA. Wachovia Corporation (NYSE: WB) and SouthTrust Corporation (NASDAQ: SOTR) announced today they have signed a definitive merger agreement that will create an unmatched franchise in their high-growth Southeastern footprint and accelerate Wachovia's planned expansion into Texas.

With this merger, Wachovia will offer 14 million households and businesses in 15 states and Washington, D.C., its premier selection of financial services and products delivered through multiple distribution channels. The combination creates the number 1 bank in the Southeast, with 18 percent deposit share, and provides immediate scale in the fast-growing Texas market. The earnings contribution generated by its high-performing banking and retail securities businesses would increase to 75 percent of Wachovia's total earnings, based on March 31, 2004, pro forma earnings. With combined assets of $464 billion and combined market capitalization of $76 billion, the financial holding company is the nation's fourth largest based on assets.

This transaction gives us clear leadership in a number of attractive, high-growth states, and extends our reach into new southeastern and southwestern states," said Ken Thompson, Wachovia's chairman, president and CEO. "It is also financially attractive for both sets of shareholders. It meets Wachovia's investment return guidelines, while improving the long-term growth prospects for both companies.

SouthTrust is one of the nation's best performing, highest quality regional banks. Wachovia and SouthTrust have proven leadership in sales and customer service, as well as expertise in successful merger integration. Both companies are committed to excellence in customer service. We're excited about what we can do for our customers, communities, employees and shareholders as we join forces," Thompson said. "We'll continue the long tradition Wachovia and SouthTrust have of commitment to community through strengthening neighborhoods and leadership in education. We expect to announce a specific community plan within the next several weeks.

Wachovia has agreed to exchange 0.89 shares of its common stock for each share of SouthTrust common stock. Based on Wachovia's closing stock price of $47.00 on June 18, 2004, the transaction would be valued at $14.3 billion and represent an exchange value of $41.83 for each share of SouthTrust common stock. It is expected to be accretive to cash earnings per share within 24 months and to operating earnings per share within 30 months, and is expected to provide an internal rate of return (IRR) of 16 percent. Cash earnings are earnings before merger-related and restructuring expenses, intangible amortization and preferred dividends. Operating earnings are earnings before merger-related and restructuring expenses and preferred dividends.

The companies expect the transaction to generate $255 million in annual after-tax expense reductions after a 15-month integration period following completion of the merger. These savings equal 3 percent of the companies' current combined annualized expense base, or 36 percent of SouthTrust expenses. The companies expect one-time costs, including merger-related and restructuring charges and exit cost purchase accounting adjustments, of $431 million after tax over the integration period, and they estimate that less than $1 billion in deposits would be divested as a condition of regulatory approval.

In addition, Wachovia said it expects to repurchase shares of its common stock in the open market before beginning the proxy solicitation in connection with the shareholder vote on the transaction, and after the vote. Following consummation of the merger, Wachovia expects an additional $1.7 billion of excess capital will be available from the combined company, which Wachovia anticipates using to make incremental share repurchases. The timing and nature of these repurchases will depend on market conditions and applicable securities laws.

The complementary strengths of the two companies are expected to generate significant revenue opportunities, although these expectations are not included in the financial assumptions for the transaction.

This combination offers something rare. Our goal is for all of our stakeholders to benefit from the expanded resources and broad product set of Wachovia—a big company that takes pride in not acting like one, said Wallace Malone, chairman and CEO of SouthTrust. We share the same core values and the same passion about serving our customers, improving our communities, providing meaningful work for our employees and building enduring value for shareholders.

We have watched carefully as Wachovia completed its recent merger while continuing to improve the customer experience and generating strong earnings growth. Our merger integration timeline and focus on retaining customers is modeled on the Wachovia-First Union model, which we believe is the best in the industry, Malone added. He will serve as Wachovia's vice chairman following the completion of the merger.

David M. Carroll, Wachovia senior executive vice president, and Frank Schmidt, SouthTrust Bank vice chairman, will co-lead the integration of the two companies. We're eager to leverage our successful merger integration experience with the SouthTrust organization, Carroll said. We believe our customer retention and revenue growth results can be duplicated and perhaps even exceeded.

The combined company will have the top retail banking market share in North Carolina, Virginia, Georgia and South Carolina, and the second largest market share in Washington, D.C., Florida, Alabama, Pennsylvania and New Jersey. The new franchise will have 90 percent of its deposits in markets where it holds the No. 1 or 2 deposit market share.

If the two companies were combined today, they would have total deposits of $267 billion. The company's 14 million households and businesses would be served by 98,000 employees, 3,200 banking branches and 5,300 ATMs.

Mr. Malone and two other members of SouthTrust's board of directors will join the Wachovia board of directors when the transaction is completed. Wachovia will continue to be headquartered in Charlotte.

Wachovia's recent history has been a story of high performance, execution and focus, revenue growth and expense control, said Thompson. We believe the SouthTrust transaction will enable us to generate even higher growth and continue to deliver the performance our investors expect from Wachovia. Our acquisitions have been priced and integrated with discipline, and we have adhered to our financial performance hurdles.

The transaction is expected to close in the fourth quarter of 2004 and is subject to normal regulatory approvals and approval by both companies shareholders. In connection with the agreement, SouthTrust has granted Wachovia an option to purchase, under certain circumstances, up to 19.5 percent of its outstanding common shares.

Wachovia Corporation (NYSE:WB) is one of the largest providers of financial services to retail, brokerage and corporate customers throughout the East Coast and the nation, with assets of $411.0 billion, market capitalization of $61.7 billion and stockholders' equity of $33.3 billion at March 31, 2004.
