PART I - FINANCIAL INFORMATION

Item 1. Financial Statements

Review Report of Independent Registered Public Accounting Firm

Board of Directors

Respironics, Inc. and Subsidiaries

We have reviewed the accompanying consolidated balance sheet of Respironics, Inc. and Subsidiaries as of September 30, 2006, and the related consolidated statements of operations for the three-month periods ended September 30, 2006 and 2005, and the condensed consolidated statements of cash flows for the three-month periods ended September 30, 2006 and 2005. These interim financial statements are the responsibility of the Company's management.

We conducted our reviews in accordance with standards of the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board (United States). A review of interim financial information consists principally of applying analytical procedures to financial data, and making inquiries of persons responsible for financial and accounting matters. It is substantially less in scope than an audit conducted in accordance with the auditing standards of the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, which will be performed for the full year with the objective of expressing an opinion regarding the financial statements taken as a whole. Accordingly, we do not express such an opinion.

Based on our reviews, we are not aware of any material modifications that should be made to the accompanying consolidated financial statements referred to above for them to be in conformity with U.S. generally accepted accounting principles.

We have previously audited, in accordance with standards of the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board (United States), the consolidated balance sheet of Respironics, Inc. and Subsidiaries as of June 30, 2006, and the related consolidated statements of operations, shareholders equity, and cash flows for the year then ended not presented herein, and in our report dated September 8, 2006 we expressed an unqualified opinion on those consolidated financial statements. In our opinion, the information set forth in the accompanying consolidated balance sheet as of June 30, 2006 is fairly stated, in all material respects, in relation to the consolidated balance sheet from which it has been derived.

Table of ContentsNOTES TO CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS (UNAUDITED)*RESPIRONICS, INC. AND SUBSIDIARIES*September 30, 2006*NOTE A BASIS OF PRESENTATION

The accompanying unaudited condensed consolidated financial statements have been prepared in accordance with U.S. generally accepted accounting principles for interim financial information and with the instructions to Form 10-Q and Article 10 of Regulation S-X. Accordingly, they do not include all of the information and footnotes required by U.S. generally accepted accounting principles for complete financial statements. In the opinion of management, all adjustments (consisting of normal recurring accruals) considered necessary for a fair presentation of the financial position of Respironics, Inc. and subsidiaries (the Company or Respironics) have been included. Operating results for the three-month period ended September 30, 2006 are not necessarily indicative of the results that may be expected for the year ended June 30, 2007. The amounts and information as of June 30, 2006 set forth in the consolidated balance sheet and notes to the consolidated financial statements that follow were derived from the Company's Annual Report on Form 10-K for the year ended June 30, 2006. For further information, refer to the consolidated financial statements and footnotes thereto included in the Company's Annual Report on Form 10-K for the year ended June 30, 2006.

NOTE B SHORT-TERM INVESTMENTS

Short-term investments consist of U.S. Treasury bills, other government securities, commercial paper, and certificates of deposit, with maturities greater than 90 days.

NOTE C ACCOUNTS RECEIVABLE

Trade accounts receivable in the consolidated balance sheets is net of allowances for doubtful accounts of $15,040,000 as of September 30, 2006 and $15,188,000 as of June 30, 2006.

NOTE D INVENTORIES

The composition of inventories is as follows:

	September 30,	June 30,
	2006	2006
Raw materials	$ 42,348,000	$ 41,059,000
Work-in-process	11,716,000	9,606,000
Finished goods	78,592,000	73,484,000
	$ 132,656,000	$ 124,149,000

NOTE E DERIVATIVE INSTRUMENTS AND HEDGING ACTIVITIES

The Company's reporting currency is the U.S. Dollar, and a substantial majority of the Company's sales, expenses, and cash flows are transacted in U.S. Dollars. The Company also does business in various foreign currencies, primarily the Japanese Yen, the Euro, the British Pound, the Hong Kong Dollar, the Canadian Dollar, the Swiss Franc, the Swedish Kronor, the Norwegian Kroner and the Chinese Yuan. As part of the Company's risk management strategy, management has put in place a hedging program under which the Company enters into foreign currency option and forward contracts to hedge a portion of cash flows denominated in certain foreign currencies.

As of September 30, 2006 the Company acquired foreign currency option and forward contracts to hedge a portion of forecasted cash flows and recognized foreign currency transactions denominated in Japanese Yen. The foreign currency option and forward contracts have notional amounts of approximately $4,348,000 as of September 30, 2006 and mature at various dates through December 31, 2006. As of September 30,

Edgar Filing: RESPIRONICS INC - Form 10-Q

2006 and June 30, 2006, foreign currency option and forward contracts with a fair value of $33,000 and $58,000, respectively, are recorded with prepaid expenses and other current assets.

The Company enters into foreign currency contracts, when it deems appropriate, to reduce the risk that the Company's earnings and cash flows, resulting from certain forecasted and recognized currency transactions, will be affected by changes in foreign currency exchange rates. However, the Company may be impacted by changes in foreign exchange rates related to forecasted transactions that are not hedged. The success of the hedging program depends, in part, on forecasts of the Company's transactions in foreign currencies. When it deems appropriate, hedges are placed for periods consistent with identified exposures, but not longer than the end of the year for which the Company has substantially completed its annual business plan.

Table of Contents

The Company may experience unanticipated foreign currency exchange gains or losses to the extent that there are timing differences between forecasted and actual activity during periods of currency volatility. However, since the critical terms of contracts designated as cash flow hedges are the same as the underlying forecasted and recognized currency transactions, changes in fair value of the contracts should be highly effective in offsetting the present value of changes in the expected cash flows from the forecasted and recognized currency transactions. The ineffective portion of changes in the fair value of contracts designated as hedges, if any, is recognized immediately in earnings. The Company did not recognize material gains or losses resulting from either hedge ineffectiveness or changes in forecasted transactions during the three-month periods ended September 30, 2006 and 2005.

The effective portion of any changes in the fair value of the derivative instruments, designated as cash flow hedges, is recorded in other comprehensive income (loss) (OCI) until the hedged forecasted transaction occurs or the recognized currency transaction affects earnings. Once the forecasted transaction occurs or the recognized currency transaction affects earnings, the effective portion of any related gains or losses on the cash flow hedge is reclassified from OCI to earnings. In the event the hedged forecasted transaction does not occur, or it becomes probable that it will not occur, the ineffective portion of any gain or loss on the related cash flow hedge would be reclassified from OCI to earnings at that time.

For the three-month periods ended September 30, 2006, and 2005 the Company recognized net gains related to designated cash flow hedges in the amount of $61,000 and $33,000, respectively. These amounts are classified with other income in the consolidated statements of operations. During the three-month periods ended September 30, 2006 and 2005, the derivative gains were offset by realized and unrealized currency losses on the cash flows being hedged, which are also classified with other income in the consolidated statements of operations.

NOTE F COMMITMENTS AND CONTINGENCIES

Litigation and Other:

On March 5, 2004, the Company filed a lawsuit against Invacare Corporation (Invacare) in the United States District Court for the Western District of Pennsylvania alleging that Invacare's manufacture, sale and marketing of a new Continuous Positive Airway Pressure (CPAP) device infringes one or more of eleven U.S. patents of the Company. In its complaint, the Company has sought preliminary and permanent injunctive relief, damages and an award of three times actual damages. In its answer to the complaint, Invacare has denied the infringement allegations of the complaint and has asserted that the company's patents are invalid. Discovery has concluded, and by Order dated August 30, 2006, the Court decided certain issues regarding the interpretation of patent claims involved in the case. The Court postponed the May 2006 trial but has not yet set the new trial date.

On August 6, 2004, Invacare filed a lawsuit against the Company in the United States District Court in the Northern District of Ohio alleging that the Company has engaged in monopolization, restraint of trade and unfair competition in the sale and distribution of sleep apnea products. The lawsuit's claims include allegations that the Company's actions and alleged market power have foreclosed competitors from alleged markets and have created markets where there has not been competitive pricing or availability of competitive product offerings. In the lawsuit, Invacare seeks damages in an unspecified amount and to treble such damages pursuant to the antitrust laws, as well as attorney's fees and punitive damages. Invacare also seeks injunctive relief as to certain marketing practices.

By Order dated October 23, 2006, the Court granted partial summary judgment in the Company's favor, dismissing Invacare's monopolization, attempted monopolization, price discrimination, and unfair competition claims. The Court also limited future discovery in the case to the two remaining claims, a restraint of trade claim under both federal and state law. The Company continues to vigorously defend itself against these claims. On October 31, 2006, Invacare filed a motion asking the Court to reconsider portions of its decision granting partial summary judgment. The Company opposes this motion.

The Company is, as a normal part of its business operations, a party to other legal proceedings in addition to those described above. Legal counsel has been retained for each proceeding, and none of these proceedings is expected to have a material adverse impact on the Company's results of operations or financial condition.

Contingent Obligations Under Recourse Provisions:

In connection with customer leasing programs, the Company uses independent leasing companies for the purpose of providing financing to certain customers for the purchase of the Company's products. In some cases, the Company is contingently liable, in the event of a customer default, to the leasing companies within certain limits for unpaid installment receivables initiated by or transferred to the leasing companies. The transfer of certain of these installment receivables meets the criteria of Financial Accounting Standards Board (FASB) Statement No. 140, Accounting for Transfers and Servicing of Financial Assets and Extinguishment of Liabilities, (FASB No. 140) and therefore are not recorded on the Company's financial statements.

Table of Contents

As of September 30, 2006, the total exposure for unpaid installment receivables approximates $16,197,000, compared to $15,718,000 as of June 30, 2006. Included in these amounts are unpaid installment receivables totaling $15,449,000 and $14,970,000 that meet the FASB No. 140 criteria and are not recorded on the Company's financial statements at September 30, 2006 and June 30, 2006, respectively. The estimated fair value of the Company's contingent recourse guarantee is $2,828,000 and $3,406,000 as of September 30, 2006 and June 30, 2006, respectively. Approximately 13% of the Company's net sales were made under these financing arrangements during the three-month period ended September 30, 2006, compared to 9% during the three-month period ended September 30, 2005. A portion of these sales was made with recourse. The Company is not dependent on these off-balance sheet arrangements.

Product Warranties:

Estimated future warranty costs related to certain products are charged to operations in the period in which the related revenue is recognized.

Generally, the Company's standard product warranties are for a one- to three-year period (based on the specific product sold and country in which the Company does business) that covers both parts and labor. The Company provides for the estimated cost of product warranties at the time revenue is recognized. The Company's product warranty liability reflects management's best estimate of probable liability under its product warranties. Management estimates the liability based on the Company's stated warranty policies, which project the estimated warranty obligation on a product-by-product basis based on the historical frequency of claims, the cost to replace or repair its products under warranty, and the number of products under warranty based on the warranty terms and historical units shipped. The warranty liability also includes estimated warranty costs that may arise from specific product issues. The Company periodically assesses the adequacy of its recorded warranty liabilities and adjusts the amounts as necessary. The Company also engages in the sale of extended warranties and long-term service contracts for which revenue is deferred and recognized over the warranty terms, which are generally between two and eight years. Changes in the liability for product warranty and deferred service revenues associated with these service programs for the three-month period ended September 30, 2006 are as follows:

Product Warranties
Balance at June 30, 2006	$ 18,600,000
Warranty accruals during the period	5,875,000
Service costs incurred during the period	(2,567,000)
Balance at September 30, 2006	$ 21,908,000
Deferred Service Revenues
Balance as of June 30, 2006	$ 8,238,000
Revenues deferred during the period	1,146,000
Amounts recorded as revenue during the period	(1,685,000)
Balance at September 30, 2006	$ 7,699,000

Product warranty amounts included in the table above include amounts associated with a product recall of a heated humidifier device used with the Company's older legacy CPAP systems. The Company is currently in discussion with the U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) regarding this recall and will finalize its proposed course of action after these conversations are completed. In total, the Company expects that approximately 172,000 humidifiers, produced three to five years ago, are subject to this recall. The Company has accrued $4,700,000 within product warranties related to this recall. The recall accrual includes provisions made during the three-month period ended September 30, 2006, as well as prior periods through warranty expense. The estimates and related accruals are all subject to FDA approval of the Company's plan of action with respect to the recall.

The accruals for product warranties and deferred service revenues are classified with accrued expenses and other current liabilities in the consolidated balance sheets.

NOTE G STOCK OPTION AND PURCHASE PLANS

At September 30, 2006, the Company has two active employee stock option plans, the 2000 Stock Incentive Plan and the 2006 Stock Incentive Plan, and one employee stock purchase plan. The 2000 Stock Incentive Plan, the 2006 Stock Incentive Plan and the employee stock purchase plan are described more fully in Note N in the Company's June 30, 2006 consolidated financial statements. The 2000 Stock Incentive Plan provides for the issuance of up to 6,552,000 shares for grant to eligible employees, consultants, and non-employee directors for a period of up to ten years at option prices not less than the fair market value at the time of grant. As of September 30, 2006, 387,000 shares were reserved and available to be granted pursuant to the 2000 Stock Incentive Plan. The 2006 Stock Incentive Plan was approved by shareholders on November 15, 2005, and provides for the issuance of up to 5,019,000 shares to be granted to eligible employees, consultants, and non-employee directors for a period of up to ten years at option prices not less than the fair market value at the time of grant. As of September 30, 2006, 3,933,000 shares were reserved and available to be granted pursuant to the 2006 Stock Incentive Plan. The Company may satisfy the awards upon exercise under both plans with either newly-issued or treasury shares.

The Company adopted FASB Statement Number 123 (Revised 2004) Share-Based Payment (FASB 123(R)) on July 1, 2005 using the modified prospective method. Stock-based compensation expense in the three-month periods ended September 30, 2006 and 2005 was $3,035,000 ($2,095,000 after tax, or $0.03 per share) and $2,775,000 ($2,008,000 after tax, or $0.03 per share), respectively. For the three-month period ended September 30, 2006 stock-based compensation expense is comprised of $2,799,000 attributable to stock options and $236,000 attributable to the employee stock purchase plan. For the three-month period ended September 30, 2005 stock-based compensation expense is comprised of $2,609,000 attributable to stock options and $166,000 attributable to the employee stock purchase plan. As of September 30, 2006 and June 30, 2006 the total unrecognized stock-based compensation expenses related to non-vested stock awards was $28,089,000 and $21,335,000, respectively, which will be recognized over a weighted-average period of 2.08 and 1.75 years, respectively.

FASB 123(R) also requires that excess tax benefits related to stock option exercises be reflected as a component of financing cash flows instead of operating cash flows. For the three-month periods ended September 30, 2006 and 2005, FASB 123(R) resulted in cash flows provided by financing activities of $1,377,000 and $2,780,000, respectively, which reduced cash flows provided by operating activities by the same amount.

The following table summarizes the Company's stock option information as of, and for the three-month period ended September 30, 2006:

	Option	Weighted-Average	Aggregate Intrinsic	Weighted-Average
	Shares	Exercise Price	Value (1)	Contractual Life
				Remaining in Years

(1) The intrinsic value of a stock option is the amount by which the current market value of the underlying stock exceeds the exercise price of the option.

The exercise period for all stock options may not exceed ten years from the date of grant. Stock options granted to employees become exercisable ratably over four years (25% per year) from the date of grant. Stock options granted to non-employee directors become exercisable over three years from the date of grant (25% after one year from the date of grant, an additional 25% after two years, and the remaining 50% after three years). The Company attributes stock-based compensation expense to the consolidated statement of operations using the straight-line method over the applicable vesting periods.

The weighted-average grant date fair value of stock options granted during the three-month periods ended September 30, 2006 and 2005 was $8.48 and $9.09 per share, respectively. The total intrinsic value of stock options exercised during the three-month periods ended September 30, 2006 and 2005 was $3,579,000 and $7,811,000, respectively.

The fair value of each option grant was estimated on the date of grant using the Black-Scholes option-pricing model with the following assumptions:

The average risk-free interest rate is based on the U.S. treasury security rate with a term to maturity that approximates the option's expected life as of the grant date. Expected volatility is determined using both current and historical implied volatilities of the underlying stock which is obtained from public data sources. The expected life of the stock options is determined using historical data adjusted for the estimated exercise dates of unexercised options. Additionally, separate groups of employees that have similar historical exercise behavior are considered separately for valuation purposes.

Acquisition-Related Integration Expenses As more fully described in Note J to these consolidated financial statements, the Company has recently completed several business acquisitions. In certain cases, the Company's acquisition integration strategy includes the centralization and harmonization of business processes which may result in the elimination of redundancies, centralization of corporate services functions, and the implementation of standardized processes across several business functions, which may include, among others, information systems, manufacturing, quality systems, and marketing. Additionally, the Company periodically makes one-time compensation related payments in order to retain personnel to assist with the acquisition and related integration activities. These costs, collectively referred to as acquisition-related

NOTE L RECENT ACCOUNTING PRONOUNCEMENTS

In March 2006, the FASB issued Statement No. 156, Accounting for Servicing of Financial Assets—an amendment of FASB Statement No. 140 (FASB No. 156). FASB No. 156 requires that an entity separately recognize a servicing asset or a servicing liability when it undertakes an obligation to service a financial asset under a servicing contract in certain situations. Such servicing assets or servicing liabilities are required to be initially measured at fair value, if practicable. FASB No. 156 also allows an entity to choose either the amortization method or the fair value measurement method to account for servicing assets and servicing liabilities within the scope of this Statement. FASB No. 156 is effective after the beginning of an entity's first fiscal year that begins after September 15, 2006. The Company will adopt FASB No. 156 as of July 1, 2007, and does not believe it will have a material impact to its consolidated financial statements.

In July 2006, the FASB issued Interpretation No. 48, Accounting for Uncertainty in Income Taxes (FIN 48). FIN 48 creates a single model to address uncertainty in income tax positions. FIN 48 clarifies the accounting for income taxes by prescribing the minimum recognition threshold a tax position is required to meet before being recognized in the financial statements. It also provides guidance on de-recognition, measurement, classification, interest and penalties, accounting in interim periods, disclosure and transition. FIN 48 scopes income taxes out of FASB Statement No. 5, Accounting for Contingencies. FIN 48 is effective for an entity's fiscal year beginning after December 15, 2006. The Company will adopt FIN 48 as of July 1, 2007, as required, and is currently evaluating the impact of such adoption on its financial statements.

In September 2006, the FASB issued Statement No. 157, Fair Value Measurements (FASB No. 157). FASB No. 157 establishes a framework for measuring fair value and expands disclosures about fair value measurements. The changes to current practice resulting from the application of this Statement relate to the definition of fair value, the methods used to measure fair value, and the expanded disclosures about fair value measurements. FASB No. 157 is effective for financial statements issued for fiscal years beginning after November 15, 2007, and interim periods within those fiscal years. The Company will be required to adopt the provisions of FASB No. 157 on July 1, 2008, and does not believe it will have a material impact to its consolidated financial statements.

The Company's strategy is to broaden the scope of its business in the sleep and respiratory markets while continuing to grow its core drivers. The Company's core growth drivers include expanding the global Obstructive Sleep Apnea (OSA) marketplace, furthering the acceptance and adoption of the Company's ventilation therapies, and continued successful international expansion. In connection with this strategy, the Company also continues to invest and gain critical mass in Children's Medical Ventures, Home Respiratory Care, Respiratory Drug Delivery and Sleep Well Ventures.

Overall, acquired revenues and the impact of foreign currency exchange rate changes, in the aggregate, had less than a 0.5% positive impact on revenues during the three-month period ended September 30, 2006.

Edgar Filing: RESPIRONICS INC - Form 10-Q

The Company's domestic Sleep and Home Respiratory revenue increase during the three-month period ended September 30, 2006 was led by a year-over-year increase of $14,438,000 (15%) in sleep therapy. The Company's growth in OSA was achieved through the Company's overall product breadth in OSA therapy, strong sales channels with thought leaders and homecare providers, and growth of the domestic OSA therapy market (estimated to be approximately 15% - 20%). This increase in sleep therapy revenues was achieved as the Company continued to execute on its planned transition to the new M-Series platform of positive airway pressure devices. As of September 30, 2006, the Company has released all models of the new M-Series, including Bi-level devices which were introduced at the end of September. As of September 30, 2006, the Company's Alice[®] 5 Sleep Diagnostics System also continued to gain market share in sleep labs, posting a year-over-year increase of $1,687,000 (41%) in the three-month period ended September 30, 2006.

Table of Contents

Sales of domestic Hospital products during the three-month period ended September 30, 2006 increased by $933,000 (2%). Sales of domestic Critical Care products (consisting of ventilation therapy and cardio-respiratory monitoring products) increased by $2,276,000 (11%), during the three-month period ended September 30, 2006. These results were led by increased ventilation sales, specifically the Vision[®] non-invasive ventilator. Revenues from domestic Respiratory Drug Delivery products (consisting of traditional asthma and nebulizer products as well as advanced respiratory drug delivery systems) decreased by $1,831,000 (24%). This decrease was largely due to the initial stocking orders, included in sales for the three-month period ended September 30, 2005, associated with the prior year launch of the Company's I-neb[™] Adaptive Aerosol Delivery system. Domestic Children's Medical Ventures product revenues (consisting of infant monitors, bilirubin devices, and developmental care products) increased by $488,000 (4%), during the three-month period ended September 30, 2006.

The Company's international growth during the three-month period ended September 30, 2006 included increased sales of both Sleep and Home Respiratory and Hospital products. The most significant increase was driven by sleep therapy, which increased by $8,397,000 (27%) during the three-month period ended September 30, 2006. International Hospital product sales increased by $6,167,000 (31%) for the three-month period ended September 30, 2006. The increase was driven primarily by higher ventilation therapy and Respiratory Drug Delivery product sales. The Company's international revenue growth occurred across key markets, with Europe, Canada, and the Far East / Asia Pacific all experiencing revenue increases.

Gross Profit The Company's gross profit was 53% of net sales for the three-month period ended September 30, 2006. The Company's gross profit was 55% of net sales for the three-month period ended September 30, 2005. Gross profit percentage decreased as the Company continued to execute on its planned transition to the new M-Series platform of CPAP devices in the current quarter. During this transition the Company continued to aggressively sell its legacy CPAP platform, sometimes at discounted prices and has not yet reached peak manufacturing efficiency on the new M-Series. The margin pressure from the CPAP platform transition was partially offset by higher revenue, product sales mix and material cost reductions achieved through the Company's successful negotiations with suppliers and product design changes.

General and Administrative Expenses (excluding acquisition earn-out expenses) General and administrative expenses were $34,886,000 (13% of net sales) for the three-month period ended September 30, 2006, compared to $40,251,000 (17% of net sales) for the three-month period ended September 30, 2005. The decrease for the three-month period ended September 30, 2006 was due primarily to reduced variable compensation expense. The prior year period also included increased additions to the allowance for doubtful accounts due to customers affected by the 2005 Gulf Coast hurricanes. Additionally, general and administrative expense for the three-month period ended September 30, 2006 includes $2,100,000 of product warranty expense associated with the recall of a heated humidifier device used with its older legacy CPAP systems.

Acquisition Earn-out Expenses During the three-month period ended September 30, 2005, the Company incurred $1,300,000 (less than 1% of net sales) of acquisition earn-out expenses related to its May 2002 acquisition of Fuji RC Kabushiki Kaisha (now known as Fuji Respiroics Kabushiki Kaisha and referred to herein as Fuji). The earn-out measurement period ceased during the three-month period ended June 30, 2006, as such, no expense was incurred during the three-month period ended September 30, 2006.

Sales, Marketing and Commission Expenses Sales, marketing and commission expenses were $57,565,000 (22% of net sales) for the three-month period ended September 30, 2006, compared to $50,506,000 (21% of net sales) for the three-month period ended September 30, 2005. The increase was driven by higher marketing costs associated with the launch of new products, including the M-Series platform of CPAP devices, and the Company's continued investments in sales and marketing programs and sales force, especially in international markets.

Research and Development Expenses Research and development expenses were $14,513,000 (5% of net sales) for the three-month period ended September 30, 2006, compared to $14,070,000 (6% of net sales) for the three-month period ended September 30, 2005. The dollar increase was due to the Company's continuing commitment to research, development and new product introductions, as well as research and development activities at recently acquired companies. During the three-month period ended September 30, 2005, the Company accelerated approximately $1,800,000 of research and development activities, including certain clinical studies. Significant product development efforts are ongoing and new product launches in many of the Company's major product lines have recently been issued, and additional product launches are scheduled over the remainder of the current fiscal year and beyond. Additional development work and clinical trials are being conducted in certain product areas within the sleep and respiratory markets outside the Company's current core products and patient groups.

The increase in cash provided by operating activities was primarily due to higher net income before depreciation and amortization, offset partially by working capital changes, including an increase in accounts receivable and inventories. The increase in inventories that affected operating cash flows was to support the Company's on-going release of its M-Series platform of CPAP units and other new products, as well as facility changes. FASB 123(R) requires the excess tax benefits from stock option exercises to be reported as a reduction to operating cash flows, with an offsetting increase to cash flows from financing activities. As of September 30, 2006 and 2005 this reduction to operating cash flows totaled $1,377,000 and $2,780,000, respectively. As of September 30, 2005, the Company recognized a gain of $4,398,000 on the sale of the AirLogix investment that is subtracted from operating cash flows. The proceeds from this sale which were used to fund operating activities are included as positive cash flows from investing activities.

Net cash used by investing activities was $30,966,000 and $5,814,000 for the three-month periods ended September 30, 2006 and 2005, respectively. Additionally, the Company paid $3,558,000 (net of cash acquired) to acquire businesses, and other investments and $203,000 of additional purchase price payments for previously acquired businesses. CONTRACTUAL OBLIGATIONS AND OFF-BALANCE SHEET ARRANGEMENTS

The Company has contractual financial obligations and commercial financial commitments consisting primarily of long-term debt, capital lease obligations, non-cancelable operating leases, and amounts payable to selling parties of previously acquired businesses. The amounts payable to selling parties of previously acquired businesses in the table above also includes $500,000 scheduled to be paid after a three-year retention period in conjunction with the Company's purchase of Mini-Mitter Company, Inc. (Mini-Mitter) on April 1, 2005.

Table of Contents

In addition to the amounts payable to the selling parties of previously acquired businesses that are set forth in the contractual obligations and commercial commitments table above, the Company may be obligated to make additional future payments under earn-out provisions pertaining to the acquisitions of Mini-Mitter, the acquired oxygen generation technology company, and OxyTec, for which the total amount of the obligations will not be known until the occurrence of future events. The amounts reflected in the contractual obligations and commercial commitments table above include the future payments that are accrued as of September 30, 2006 in accordance with the earn-out provisions and the Company's other fixed obligations under the acquisition agreements. See Note J to the Consolidated Financial Statements for additional information about these obligations.

The contractual obligations and commercial commitments table above does not reflect obligations under purchase orders that arise in the ordinary course of business and that are typically fulfilled within 90 days. In addition to ordinary course purchase orders, the Company enters into supply agreements and distribution agreements in the ordinary course of business, some of which make the purchase of minimum quantities of products a condition to exclusivity or to obtaining or retaining more favorable pricing. Since failure to purchase the minimum amounts under these agreements generally does not result in a breach of contract, but only to an option on the part of the vendor to terminate the Company's exclusivity or increase the product prices the Company pays to the vendor, they are not included in the contractual obligations and commercial commitments table above.

In connection with customer leasing programs, the Company uses independent leasing companies for the purpose of providing financing to certain customers for the purchase of the Company's products. In some cases, the Company is contingently liable, in the event of a customer default, to the leasing companies within certain limits for unpaid installment receivables initiated by or transferred to the leasing companies. The transfer of certain of these installment receivables meets the criteria of FASB No. 140 and therefore are not recorded on the Company's financial statements.

As of September 30, 2006, the total exposure for unpaid installment receivables approximates $16,197,000, compared to $15,718,000 as of June 30, 2006. Included in these amounts are unpaid installment receivables totaling $15,449,000 and $14,970,000 that meet the FASB No. 140 criteria and are not recorded on the Company's financial statements at September 30, 2006 and June 30, 2006, respectively. The estimated fair value of the Company's contingent recourse guarantee is $2,828,000 and $3,406,000 as of September 30, 2006 and June 30, 2006, respectively. Approximately 13% of the Company's net sales were made under these financing arrangements during the three-month period ended September 30, 2006, compared to 9% during the three-month period ended September 30, 2005. A portion of these sales was made with recourse. The Company is not dependent on these off-balance sheet arrangements.

CRITICAL ACCOUNTING POLICIES

The Company's consolidated financial statements are prepared in accordance with U.S. generally accepted accounting principles, which require the Company to make estimates and assumptions that may affect the reported financial condition and results of operations should actual results differ. The Company bases its estimates and assumptions on the best available information and believes them to be reasonable under the circumstances. There has been no change in the Company's critical accounting policies as disclosed in the Company's Annual Report on Form 10-K for the year ended June 30, 2006.

Item 3. Quantitative and Qualitative Disclosures about Market Risk.

The Company is exposed to market risk from changes in foreign currency exchange rates.

Foreign Exchange Rates The Company's reporting currency is the U.S. Dollar, and a substantial majority of the Company's sales, expenses and cash flows are transacted in U.S. Dollars. The Company also conducts business in various foreign currencies, primarily the Japanese Yen, the Euro, the British Pound, the Canadian Dollar, the Swiss Franc, the Hong Kong Dollar, the Swedish Kronor, the Norwegian Kroner and the Chinese Yuan. As part of the Company's risk management strategy, the Company has put in place a hedging program under which the Company enters into foreign currency option and forward contracts to hedge a portion of cash flows denominated in certain foreign currencies. These contracts are entered into to reduce the risk that the Company's earnings and cash flows, resulting from certain forecasted and recognized currency transactions, will be affected by changes in foreign currency exchange rates. See Note E to the consolidated financial statements for additional information about the Company's foreign currency hedging activities.

For the three-month period ended September 30, 2006, sales denominated in currencies other than the U.S. Dollar totaled $47,578,000, or approximately 18% of net sales. An adverse change of 10% in exchange rates would have resulted in a decrease in sales of $4,325,000 for the three-month period ended September 30, 2006. The Company uses a combination of natural foreign currency hedges (foreign currency-denominated costs that partially offset these revenues) and acquired hedge contracts to mitigate the impact that an adverse change of 10% in exchange rates would have on its net income. Foreign currency losses included in the determination of the Company's net income, including the impact of designated cash flow hedges, totaled $87,000 for the three-month period ended September 30, 2006.

Interest Rates Interest rates have not had a significant effect on the Company's business during the periods discussed. All of the Company's long-term obligations are subject to fixed interest rates, and the Company has no interest rate hedging agreements.

Inflation Inflation has not had a significant effect on the Company's business during the periods discussed.

Item 4. Controls and Procedures

The Chief Executive Officer and the Chief Financial Officer of the Company (its principal executive officer and principal financial officer, respectively) have concluded, based on their evaluation as of the end of the period covered by this quarterly report, that the Company's disclosure controls and procedures are effective to ensure that information required to be disclosed by the Company in the reports filed or submitted by it under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended, is recorded, processed, summarized and reported within the time periods specified in the SEC's rules and forms, and include controls and procedures designed to ensure that information required to be disclosed by the Company in such reports is accumulated and communicated to the Company's management, including the Chief Executive Officer and Chief Financial Officer, as appropriate to allow timely decisions regarding required disclosure.

There has been no change in the Company's internal control over financial reporting during the three-month period ended September 30, 2006 that has materially affected, or is reasonably likely to materially affect, the Company's internal control over financial reporting.

PART II - OTHER INFORMATION

Item 1: Legal Proceedings.

On March 5, 2004, the Company filed a lawsuit against Invacare Corporation (Invacare) in the United States District Court for the Western District of Pennsylvania alleging that Invacare's manufacture, sale and marketing of a new Continuous Positive Airway Pressure (CPAP) device infringes one or more of eleven U.S. patents of the Company. In its complaint, the Company has sought preliminary and permanent injunctive relief, damages and an award of three times actual damages. In its answer to the complaint, Invacare has denied the infringement allegations of the complaint and has asserted that the company's patents are invalid. Discovery has concluded, and by Order dated August 30, 2006, the Court decided certain issues regarding the interpretation of patent claims involved in the case. The Court postponed the May 2006 trial but has not yet set the new trial date.

On August 6, 2004, Invacare filed a lawsuit against the Company in the U.S. District Court in the Northern District of Ohio alleging that the Company has engaged in monopolization, restraint of trade and unfair competition in the sale and distribution of sleep apnea products. The lawsuit's claims include allegations that the Company's actions and alleged market power have foreclosed competitors from alleged markets and have created markets where there has not been competitive pricing or availability of competitive product offerings. In the lawsuit, Invacare seeks damages in an unspecified amount and to treble such damages pursuant to the antitrust laws, as well as attorney's fees and punitive damages. Invacare also seeks injunctive relief as to certain marketing practices.

By Order dated October 23, 2006, the Court granted partial summary judgment in the Company's favor, dismissing Invacare's monopolization, attempted monopolization, price discrimination, and unfair competition claims. The Court also limited future discovery in the case to the two remaining claims, a restraint of trade claim under both federal and state law. The Company continues to vigorously defend itself against these claims. On October 31, 2006, Invacare filed a motion asking the Court to reconsider portions of its decision granting partial summary judgment. The Company opposes this motion.

The Company is, as a normal part of its business operations, a party to other legal proceedings in addition to those previously described in filings of the Company. Legal counsel has been retained for each proceeding, and none of these proceedings is expected to have a material adverse impact on the Company's results of operations, financial condition, or cash flows.

Item 1A: Risk Factors.

There were no material changes in the Company's risk factors from the risks disclosed in the Company's Annual Report on Form 10-K for the year ended June 30, 2006.
