Item 8.01 Other Events.

As previously reported, on June 8, 2015, Fulton Financial Corporation ( Fulton Financial ) announced that, subject to market conditions, it plans to offer $150 million of its 4.50% subordinated notes due 2024 (the Subordinated Notes ) in a reopening of the existing series of such notes, in an underwritten public offering. Fulton Financial intends to use the net proceeds from the offering of the Subordinated Notes to fund the anticipated redemption of its 6.29% Junior Subordinated Deferrable Interest Debt Securities due 2036 (the Redemption ), which would result in the redemption of 100% of the 6.29% Capital Securities issued by Fulton Capital Trust I. The Redemption is conditioned upon the completion of the offering of the Subordinated Notes, and, if effected, is expected to occur in the third quarter of 2015. In the event that the Redemption occurs, Fulton Financial expects it would record a loss on redemption of debt of approximately $5.6 million on a pre-tax basis, which it would recognize in non-interest expense in its third quarter financial results, consisting of a non-cash charge for the write-off of unamortized debt issuance and hedge costs, which were incurred when the Junior Subordinated Deferrable Interest Debt Securities were originally issued in 2006. The issuance of the Subordinated Notes and the Redemption are expected to result in annual savings of approximately $2.5 million on a pre-tax basis as a result of a net reduction of Fulton Financial s interest expense.

Fulton Financial has made, and may continue to make, certain forward-looking statements with respect to its financial condition and results of operations. Do not unduly rely on forward-looking statements. Forward-looking statements can be identified by the use of words such as may, should, will, could, estimates, predicts, potential, cont anticipates, believes, plans, expects, future, intends and similar expressions which are intended to identify forward-looking statements.
