Item 1.01 Entry into a Material Definitive Agreement.

On February 13, 2007, Merck & Co., Inc. (the "Company" or "Merck") entered into a definitive agreement with the Internal Revenue Service ("IRS") to settle its previously-disclosed tax disputes. This settlement resolves all of the issues that were in dispute. The agreement essentially brings to a close the IRS's examination of the Company for the period 1993-2001. Under the agreement, the final net cash cost to Merck is expected to be approximately $2.3 billion which covers federal tax, net interest after federal tax deductions and penalties. The impact for years subsequent to 2001 of the previously disclosed tax disputes is included in the settlement although those years remain open in all other respects.

Merck has previously reserved for these items and this settlement is not expected to have any material impact on the Company's annual earnings for 2007.

The Company concluded that given the theoretical amount in disagreement, it was in the Company's best interests to reach this settlement so as to remove the uncertainty and cost of potential litigation.
