GENERAL QUESTIONS

Who is Blackstone?

Blackstone is one of the world's leading investment and advisory firms. They seek to create positive economic impact and long-term value for their investors, the companies they invest in, the companies they advise and the broader global economy. Blackstone does this through the commitment of their extraordinary people and flexible capital. Their alternative asset management businesses include the management of private equity funds, real estate funds, hedge fund solutions, credit-oriented funds and closed-end mutual funds. The Blackstone Group also provides various financial advisory services, including financial and strategic advisory, restructuring and reorganization advisory and fund placement services. Further information is available at www.blackstone.com.

Additionally, we expect Emdeon to be capitalized such that it will have the flexibility to pursue its long-term strategic goals through both internal initiatives and acquisitions.

As a company, our mission and goals remain the same. As a leading provider of healthcare technology and information solutions, we will continue working on behalf of our customers to transform both the financial and clinical aspects of healthcare delivery and make healthcare more efficient.

When will the transaction close?

There are several steps in the process:

- become a private company. The members of the Emdeon Board of Directors unanimously approved the transaction.
2. Antitrust clearance under the Hart-Scott-Rodino Act must be received before this transaction can close.
 3. Emdeon also will be required to file a Proxy Statement with the Securities and Exchange Commission and hold a special stockholders meeting to approve the transaction.
 4. While the exact date of closing the transaction is uncertain at this early date, it is likely to close in the second half of 2011 and Emdeon will again become a private company at that time.

What will it mean to be a private company?

Day-to-day operations of Emdeon will not change. However, as a private company, we expect to have greater flexibility to invest in long-term initiatives that will grow the value of Emdeon.

How will this affect me personally?

Emdeon recognizes that our employees are our most valuable asset. Both Blackstone and H&F also recognize that it is critical to maintain a highly-skilled and highly-trained workforce that is committed to serving internal and external customers. A company is only as strong as its people and it is our people that have made Emdeon successful and attractive to Blackstone and H&F. We believe there will be exciting opportunities ahead.

What do you want me to do differently between now and when the transaction closes?

Unless specifically informed otherwise, you need to focus on your job, our customers and providing excellent service. Achieving our revenue and financial goals is very important whether we are public or private.

Will there be management changes?

The senior management team is delighted to be working with Blackstone and continue our relationship with H&F, who both have a deep understanding of our business and industry. At this time, we expect the current management team to continue in their leadership roles.

Will we be rebranding?

No. We will continue to utilize the Emdeon brand and identity.

Will the transaction affect our contracts with customers?

The terms of our customer contracts will not change.

Will Emdeon be a publicly traded company?

No. When the transaction closes, Emdeon will again become a private company. Emdeon will be well capitalized, with the flexibility to pursue our long-term strategic goals through both internal initiatives and acquisitions. Until the transaction closes, Emdeon will continue to operate as a public company.

BENEFITS

Will there be changes to my health, welfare, and 401(k) benefits?

No changes are expected in the near-term as a result of this transaction. However, benefits are reviewed each year and it may be possible to leverage Blackstone's scale of nearly 700,000 employees at portfolio companies worldwide.

Where can I get information related to Emdeon Class A shares, restricted units and stock options?

A Proxy Statement will be filed with the SEC in the coming weeks and a special meeting of stockholders will be held. Due to SEC regulations, we are restricted in our ability to communicate details of the proposed transaction at this time. However, there will be additional communications to our employees and stockholders forthcoming.

Am I free to discuss the transaction?

Due to SEC regulations, employees should not engage in any external discussions related to the transaction. Employees should not reference this transaction in webinars, presentations, public meetings, panels, blogs, social media posts, etc. Any public communications should be cleared in advance with Tommy Lewis, Emdeon's Senior VP of Corporate Communications.

How should I respond if a customer, supplier or individual asks about the transaction?

This is a very unique situation in terms of communications. The SEC has communication ground rules that we must follow between the announcement today and the closing of the transaction. It is likely that today's news will lead to increased interest in Emdeon and it is important we speak with one voice on this matter. Please contact Tommy Lewis, Emdeon's Senior VP of Corporate Communications, before engaging in any internal or external communication to ensure you are in compliance with these guidelines.

Where can I get more information regarding the transaction?

Please watch your email for further communications, contact Corporate Communications or your divisional executive.

How often can we expect updates?

We strive to be as transparent as possible about major financial transactions in which we engage, and we will provide as many answers to your questions as we can. However, please understand that given the recent nature of the announcement, and the fact that as public companies, both Emdeon and The Blackstone Group must comply with SEC regulations, we may not have all the answers at this time.

After today's public announcement, we will enter what is called a "quiet period," which will continue until the expected closing of the transaction in a few months. Therefore, we may not be able to answer all of your questions. We are, however, committed to answering all questions as soon as possible and as more information becomes available.
