NEWFIELD EXPLORATION COMPANY TO ACQUIRE EEX CORPORATION*

Newfield will hold a conference call for investors at 8:30 a.m. CDT/9:30 a.m. EDT, on Thursday, May 30, 2002. The call can be heard on the Newfield web site at www.newfld.com or you can participate by following the instructions listed at the end of this release. There is a presentation available on Newfield's web site regarding this transaction that will also be referenced in the above conference call.

Houston - May 29, 2002 -- Newfield Exploration Company (NYSE:NFX) today announced that it has signed an agreement to acquire EEX Corporation (NYSE: EEX) in a transaction valued at $640 million, including the assumption of debt, net of cash, and other existing obligations. The boards of both Newfield and EEX have approved the merger agreement and the board of EEX has recommended that their shareholders approve the transaction.

Newfield plans to issue approximately 7.1 million shares in the transaction, or approximately 12.4% of Newfield's outstanding common stock (on a fully diluted basis) following the close of the transaction. Newfield also will assume about $360 million in EEX debt and existing obligations. Post-closing, Newfield will have approximately 56 million shares outstanding and a total enterprise value of approximately $2.8 billion (based on Newfield's May 29 closing price). Newfield expects the transaction to be immediately accretive to cash flow and earnings.

Under the merger agreement, EEX's common shareholders will receive .05703 of one share of Newfield common stock for each share of EEX common stock, or an aggregate of approximately 2.4 million shares of Newfield common stock. The holders of EEX's preferred stock will receive a total of 4.7 million shares of Newfield common stock in the merger.

EEX's common shareholders will have the option to elect to receive units in a new trust in lieu of Newfield stock. Approximately 42.5 million trust units will be available. For each unit that an EEX shareholder elects to receive, the number of shares of Newfield common stock that the shareholder would otherwise receive will be reduced by .00054 of one Newfield share. The trust will own overriding royalty interests in future production from intervals generally below 20,000' from certain Gulf of Mexico lease blocks in which EEX owns or may acquire an interest. There is no production currently associated with the royalty interests.

The merger is subject to the approval of EEX's common shareholders, certain regulatory approvals and other conditions. All of EEX's preferred shareholders have signed an irrevocable proxy to vote their shares for the merger. The transaction is expected to close in the third quarter of 2002.

Newfield President and CEO, David A. Trice, said, "The assets and operations of Newfield and EEX are very complementary. EEX's onshore properties are located primarily in our core South Texas focus area. Our combined operations will make us one of the largest independent producers in this prolific natural gas basin. EEX's reserves have been added almost exclusively through the drill bit by a group of talented employees in EEX's San Antonio office. We will be extremely pleased to have them join Newfield.

"EEX's offshore oil and gas properties will establish Newfield in the deepwater. Over the past year, we have recruited and developed a deepwater team at Newfield and this acquisition now provides a significant property base. A majority of the deepwater blocks are in partnership with Shell, a leader in deepwater development and technology. EEX also has developed an intriguing deep play on the Gulf of Mexico Shelf and has recently entered into a joint venture with BP Exploration, which will lead the effort to develop this concept. Strategically and economically this is a great acquisition for Newfield."

Newfield's executive staff will continue in their current roles following the close of this transaction. Newfield expects to decrease EEX's current G&A expense by about 50%.

The following table details the complementary nature of the assets and the significance of this acquisition to Newfield.

estimate of these reserves at year-end 2001 is about 20% less.

Newfield is also acquiring a substantial exploration acreage and prospect portfolio in deepwater and working and royalty interests in undeveloped discoveries in the Llano Basin, which is located in the Garden Banks area of the Gulf of Mexico. Other material assets include the Enserch Garden Banks Cooper Production facility and its related equipment, fee minerals and corporate tax attributes.

Newfield has obtained a commitment to provide it with a secured bridge facility to pay maturing EEX debt and other obligations at closing. On a March 31, 2002 pro forma basis, Newfield would, under current financing plans, have approximately 56 million common shares outstanding (on a fully diluted basis), approximately $335 million of net bank debt, $300 million of Senior Notes, $144 million in convertible trust preferred securities, and the EEX senior secured bridge facility. Debt as a percentage of book capitalization would be about 41%, excluding the trust preferred securities.
